RE: James E. Tatum Scholarship

The College of Agriculture and Human Sciences sincerely appreciate the generous contribution to assist students with their higher education pursuit to attend Prairie View A&M University. This is a testament of your strong commitment to the mission of our University.

We are honored to extend our gratitude for the two (2) $1000 scholarships awarded to:

- 1. Hannah Elise Adams
- 2. Faith Dionna Isabelle

Through our land grant mission, Prairie View A&M University and specifically the College of Agriculture and Human Sciences, is committed to strengthening the position of the University in matters relating to individuals and families and their interactive roles with social, economic and environmental systems.

The university promotes academic scholarship, supports student success and encourages well-rounded professional development. Your continued generosity will ensure that some students will have access to the Prairie View A&M University knowledge base and will become productive citizens in society. Again, many thanks.

Sincerely and Respectfully,

Gerard D'Souza, Ph. D.
Dean, College of Agriculture and Human Sciences
Director, Land-Grant Programs
